Experience notes sheet

Read the role’s required behaviors and pick ones that match what you really did. Fictional example: a student who prioritized mock customer requests in class notes role and goal, action, observed result and limits. It was a classroom simulation, not a real company commission. Examples never fill your notes .

Optional

You can write freely without this help Counselors only ask fact-check questions and never compose sentences for you. Performance notes tied to job requirements , with evidence

You can write freely without this help

Within the allotted writing time: choose an experience → optional notes (situation and role can be skipped) → write the text yourself → check your own action, result and evidence → save V1 or a revision. No extra minutes are added.

You can write freely without this help

Keep actual experiences, simulated experiences and not-yet-confirmed content separate. What a teacher or counselor says is not a fact until you confirm it yourself.

V1 → V2

V1 is kept as is → only what the student chose is shared → consultation questions → the student confirms or excludes any additional facts → the student revises → save V2. Hypothetical answers never become experience facts.
